Restoring Individual Freedom and Liberties to the Citizenry of Texas

The Public Education System of Texas has Stolen the Freedom and Liberties of All Citizens of Texas and Enslaved Them with the Bond of Unlawful Taxation for Decades!

While elected puppet officials in Austin take their marching orders from public educators the lives of thousands in Texas are being destroyed every day. The silence is deafening coming from leaders in Austin who have sold out to the corrupt public education system.

If you are a conservative Christian in Texas; you have no friends in Austin.

It has been said and written about many times before, great nations, empires and free societies are destined to fall from within, it is only a matter of time. History has a good way of proving this to those who dare not to take heed of those that have perished before us!

The weapons used today to destroy centuries of hard work and good will to build this nation are not guns, gunpowder or nuclear weapons. The single most common tools used by governments and those who govern are simply, pen and paper! The elected leaders of this nation and republic for over a one hundred years have chosen taxation wrapped beautifully and eloquently in compassion and good will to bring this nation to its knees.

Ad valorem translated directly from Latin, means "according to [the] value [of something]." In practical use, the term is used in taxation to designate taxes levied against property, real or personal, at a certain rate based upon the property's value.

Ironically as it may sound, the very reason lawmakers passed the legislation that created the "ad-valorem" funding mechanism for education may have been well intentioned but at the demise of individual freedom and liberty of common people. Elected leaders and politicians are well trained and versed in subterfuge to distract and misguide common people, this is especially true of those in need or as appears to be on the surface. Don't kid yourself politicians are the best used car salesmen on the block.

Getting Back to the Basics

The current status and condition in the "public education system" today is a picture of pure unadulterated hypocrisy! If true facts and real education were actually taking place in the classroom today it would only be a matter of a few decades before real educators worked themselves out of a job! Take a few minutes to think ponder this. If real American history were being taught and comprehended by those children attending the public school system, they would soon realize they live in a country that was designed and intended to set them free! Free from any form of government that is corrupt and uses its citizens as pawns on a chess board. The founding fathers fought and shed blood to give future generations freedoms, liberties, and choices. Leaders and educators have ventured far off course from the dreams and hopes of the founding fathers and what they envisioned for future generations to come. The fishbowl approach to education in this nation has produced the most ignorant of generations in regard to freedom, liberty, and personal responsibility. One does not have to look far to prove this!

John Adams is known for one of the most profound and important statements ever made ““facts are stubborn things”. Let us review in detail some facts about the public education system in Texas and “ad-valorem” taxes.

1. The current government run, and operated system of education is founded on a lie! Now that’s one to wrap your mind around. The pitch by the used car salesmen in office at the time the public education idea was dreamed up, was to guarantee that every child would receive and education. One of those feel-good ideas and promises. The fact is not every child will receive and education in public school no matter how hard you try and how much money you spend. Many children do not and cannot learn in a large classroom setting. Learning is achieved by many different methods such as time alone reading a book, hands on experience, through the trials and tribulations experienced in life, one-on-one mentoring, having success and not to mention failure are just to name a few of the way education is achieved.

“Every child is different; they are not born of the same mold and that is a blessing not understood by many.”

2. The government is not the child’s father or mother, wow! It is not the government or educators, or other citizens to provide the education for someone else’s children. It is solely the responsibility of the parents to provide and nurture their child’s education by whatever means they choose.
3. No matter what elected officials may tell you, no one cares more about children than their parents. It is obvious there are parents that are oblivious to their responsibilities as parents there is no denying this. This fact and truth have been known since man step foot on this planet. What has occurred regarding education in this country and state is this, there are wolves in sheep’s clothing ready to take advantage of the opportunity to fill the gap of parents and make promises they cannot keep at the cost of responsible parents and citizens that pull their own weight.

4. One of the too good to be true slogans created by the public education system in Texas is "no child left behind". A disaster in the making, the failure of this approach to education was known before the ink dried. Tens of thousands of kids are graduating from school today that cannot read or write past a second or third grade level. I have been in the position and place to interview individuals for jobs. It is mind boggling to see and know that young men in their early twenties cannot read or write legibly and clearly in order to fill out an application for employment! They were a product and victim of the system, and the failure and cost fell upon them and their family. There is no money back guarantee in the current public education system for the victims of the current system. But you can know and trust the local public school system received the tax dollars from the parent(s) and the matching funds from the state! Heaven forbids, the school teachers and educators do not get paid for their failure to educate. Sometimes you must call a "spade a spade".
5. Educating children is no longer the most important and primary goal, this has been the case for decades. The facts speak for themselves. Taxpayer money is used today in school districts and facilities for sports, band, vocational training, feeding children, a law enforcement detention center and now are supposed to administer mental healthcare services. And one has to wonder why the system it's not working any longer. It is very simple; it is a government run entity in every way imaginable and a very large part of parents and citizens are clueless. This is truly a social injustice at the highest level. Self-reliance, independence, responsibility, and civic duty are not taught and subjected to children today. Instead, they are taught they are a victim of some racial or social oppression that prevents them from reaching and achieving goals in life. The sad part many of them receive this type of teaching and instruction at home from parents as well.

Now The Important Facts

1. School districts, school boards and individual board members have violated and infringed upon the rights of citizens the respective school district for decades. School districts are going to learn very soon some real lessons regarding history, law, the constitution and citizen(s) rights and freedoms.
2. School board members do not know and understand the basic founding principles and why this country came about. The fact they do not uphold all citizen's freedoms and rights known by natural law(s), given by God, and granted in the United States Constitution begs the question; how are they able to get away with it? It should make thousands of parents question just who do we have in charge of our schools in this state? The cold hard facts are parents themselves are victims of the system and have not received the proper education in regard to history and civic duty.

3. No level of government can create, pass, and impose legislation and law(s) that contradict prior law(s) established in the constitution. Many elected officials know this but keep quiet about it because their livelihood depends on the ignorance and apathy of common people. It would be to the demise of the so-called “public education system” to actually teach the facts and truth regarding freedoms and liberties granted and guaranteed to free people and citizens of this nation. Educators and lawmakers who promote and protect the current public education system in this state and across the nation do not value the rights, freedom, liberty, and fair treatment of the hard-working responsible citizens of this state.
4. The “real” cost of an education. What has baffled me for decades and until I had children of my own that were home-schooled is this; what is the real cost of an education? The fact of the matter is simply this, it cannot be measured in dollars! Thousands of dollars are spent each year by the public education system per student. Every year since the beginning of the government run and controlled public system students graduate that should not be allowed to. They have not acquired the academic skills they need in life. They have been taught to “take tests”. There is a huge chasm between taking and passing a test and acquiring knowledge. Taking test are not for the benefit of the student, it is to keep the public education system funded and keep people employed! The facts speak for themselves and cannot be denied. It cannot be denied that thousands of students do complete school and graduate with learning and a some even excel. The question that begs an answer is this; would they have excelled even higher academically if simply given the chance! Those children in public school that grasp learning easily and are self-motivators are held back in the majority of cases.
5. The value of education verses property value. To this day I do not understand the mindset and comparison lawmakers had at the time when they levied “ad-valorem” taxes on one’s personal property. If you want to purchase a new car most people will shop around for the best value. No one wants to spend more than they need to for anything.

Example: If two people are shopping for the same vehicle at the same time from the same car dealer and from the same salesperson, most likely and logically they are going to purchase the vehicle for the same price. This is true whether one person is in a lower-class level of income and other is in a very higher-class level of income. Their income bears no significance to the value of the new car they want and are free to choose! The same holds true in regard to the cost of “real” education.

6. There is no connection between the value of one's personal property and education!

Assume the cost for educating a single child is $6000.00 annually. Under the current unconstitutional system, the tax burden should be equally distributed and shared by citizens no matter the value of one's property. There has been no correlation between the two from the very beginning. The fact the entire idea and system of levying "ad-valorem" taxes on personal property is unconstitutional our friends in Austin have even further punished millions of taxpayers in Texas by creating a multi-tiered society based solely one's wealth!

As I stated earlier politicians are the best used car salesmen on the planet. They have no problem spending your money and suppressing your rights to protect and preserve there jobs and position(s) of authority. The most important thing you can learn from what is being shared with you in this document is this; no one in Austin cares about you personally! It has been one of the most difficult things for me to have learned over the past seventeen years trying to expose fraud, corruption, bribery and infringement on personal rights and one's own sovereignty. As citizens of this state and nation you must take the kid gloves off to win this fight and regain what is rightfully yours but has been stolen from you by a corrupt and immoral system known as "the public education system"!

7. The Winning Strategy Moving Forward – Citizens in Texas cannot rely and plan on a rescue from Austin, Texas. That will simply never happen. Austin bureaucrats are not capable and cannot provide an answer and solution to a problem they do not understand. The best they can muster is another long-drawn-out legislative session using a band-aide approach. These will not restore and uphold the rights of citizens, all the while citizens fall further and further behind financially while losing their homes, businesses and at the same time losing their rights and freedoms as free citizens of this nation. Citizens and taxpayers have to elevate this to the federal level for any chance of relief from oppression by unlawful taxation. You must keep your eye on the ball, and focus on your rights, freedoms and liberties granted by the constitution of the United States.

At this time citizens such as myself and many others are planning the way and strategy to correct the wrongs committed by lawmakers, legislators and public educators in Texas. The first step to bring this to the federal court system has been taken. Many school board members of their district(s) will be challenged individually in the federal court system for violating the rights of citizens in their respective school district(s). What many school board members do not realize is, no one in Austin can and will be able to help them. It is a matter of an elected public official using their position unlawfully to violate, infringe and suppress the rights of citizens known by natural law(s), God given and granted in the constitution. The state of Texas and its representatives have committed a very serious crime against the citizens of this state for many decades. Soon many board members and career educators will learn they are not above the law and do have authority to oppress the rights of citizens and free people. The teaching profession is a noble cause, no one can argue this, but it does not grant special rights and privileges that contradict natural law(s), federal law and the freedoms and liberties of the free citizens of this nation as a whole.
